But Wait – There's More!

We are pleased to introduce the secret everyone is talking about: An LLI summer program for you and your friends.

On June 2, LLI will open its doors to a four-week pilot summer program in Olin -- the LLI SummerFest — another milestone for LLI. This is a bonus program for current members, and will also be open to the community, for a small fee.

Shedding tradition, the summer program will offer a mix of one and two-hour morning classes, starting at 9:30 am and ending with lunch. Choose from a mix of new topics or some of our "best of LLI" talks. Take one, two or more classes. The social time we all enjoy will be built in — a coffee break mid-morning and a brown-bag lunch gathering at noon.

Registration will open on-line, starting in early May, on a first-come first-serve basis. You will receive an e-mail with course descriptions included on the registration form. Be sure to register as soon as possible.

We hope you can join us for this program experiment; bring your friends and meet new people!

What Do We Need?

LLI SummerFest will need several class managers to take attendance. If you would like to help, e-mail Elaine Habernig at ehabernig@gmail.com, or check off the box on the SummerFest registration form when you enroll.

We would also like to have a few people to host lunch tables each week in Kline Commons or a picnic area outside. To volunteer, please e-mail Anne Sunners at sungrannie@aol.com.

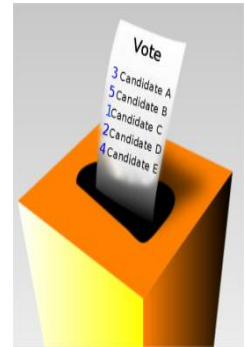

Come to a SummerFest team meeting on May 19 at 11:30 in the Campus Center, Room 214 to find out more!

Heed the e-Call for Nominations!

On April 1st, (No fooling) The LLI Elections Committee e-mailed a Survey Monkey request to each LLI member to respond with the name(s) of members they consider to be potential Council members. If you did not receive your request, call Ollie Johnson at 845-204-8158 or e-mail him at mroliverw@gmail.com.

What happens to the name(s) you propose? The anonymously proposed names are accumulated by Survey Monkey. They are given to the Nominating Committee to vet and create the slate of candidates for the election of council members in June/July.

This is your opportunity to participate! The window closes on April 19th.
